I wonder what this might be?

(lay out a green felt circle)

Hmmm.

Place a church in the center.

Oh, look. Here is a church. What does this church look like inside?

Try to look in the windows or into the church piece

Well, hmm. I think we are going to have to use our imagination. Wait! We are inside a church. Let's look around. I see a circle of people here today. Every Sunday people come to church to be together and to learn and grow together. Sometimes when we talk about church, we call it a family of families. Sometimes when we talk about church we talk about the people like they are our family. If that is true, then we are a family in our Spirit Play Class, too.

Open your arms to the whole class

Our Spirit Play family is part of a larger Unity Church family.

Hold your hands in a circle around the church.

Did you know that our Unity Church family is also a part of an even larger family called Unitarian Universalists?

Move hands out to hold a larger circle around the church

We even think of ourselves as belonging to an even larger human family that includes everybody in the whole world.

Move hands out again to hold an even larger circle, maybe indicating holding a circle around the whole earth on the carpet

That's a big family!

Families All Matter

I think one of the reasons we come to be a part of a church family is to practice love and how to be loving. In our church we have lots of different people learning about love in lots of different ways. Some people become teachers in our church.

Place a person in a line.

And come to class to love and learn about love.

Place a person in a line.

Some people make food for gatherings at church or for people who are sad or hurting.

Place a person in a line.

Some people go to protests to try to change laws to make our world a more loving place for everyone.

Place a person in a line.

Some people sing in the choir to learn about and be love.

Place a person in a line.

Most of all, we come to church to try to love ourselves and each other so that we can live our best lives and help others to live their best lives.

Place the people in a group or circle around the church.

Love takes on so many different actions and ways of being at our church. How wonderful that we can love in so many different ways and still be one family. In our church we are asking ourselves a question that sounds like, who is missing from our family and how can we love them too?

Just like love can look lots of different ways in our church and underneath it's all still love, our families that we live with can look different too. It is so wonderful that families can look different, just like love. When things are different from one another we get so many gifts of new ideas and bigger hearts. It is really a celebration when many different people and ways of being gather in one place to learn about love.

Let's visit some of the families that make up our church family.

As you introduce different kinds of families, rearrange the people.

I know some families at Unity Church that are made of two moms and kids. I know some families at Unity Church that have two dads and kids. I know some families at Unity church that have two grown ups and no kids. In some families kids live with one parent at a time or two parents or with their grandparents. Some kids here are adopted and live with parents who have become their family. Some families have pets. In some families everyone looks like each other. In some families everyone has their own look. There are so many different ways of being family here that I can't even name them all! I know that even when families look the same that they are made of unique people so really all families in some ways are different than every other family. This makes each family, no matter what it looks like special and wonderful. This means when we get all these different families together that we get to celebrate all the wonderful things that different families bring to our church family.

Most especially, each of our families are special because we belong to each other in a very wonderful way. We love each other and we get to practice loving each other even better. We come with our family to Unity Church to worship and learn with other families opening our hearts to bigger and more wonderful and all kinds of different love.

I wonder what was the best part of the story?

I wonder what was the most important part of this story?

I wonder what we could leave out of this story and still have all the story we need?

I wonder if you were someone or something in the story, who or what would you be?
